

ABSTRACT

A method of making polymeric, e.g., polyester, filaments having low denier spread by use of a polymer of high viscosity is described. The filaments are 5 useful to make yarns and other articles.